

Only through solidarity can we turn away from the brink of devastating climate change and overcome the power of entrenched wealth.

Whether you are leading your own environmental justice campaign or looking for a way to lend a hand, we need your help. We need all of us.

Ecosocialism starts at the grass roots and aims for the sky.

We are students, union members, advocates, lawyers, policy professionals, and activists, but most importantly we are members of communities living under capitalism at the edge of rising seas. We're fighting for food justice, cleaner and cheaper modes of energy production and transportation, community gardens and co-ops, backyards free of pipelines, and a public bank to serve the interests of regular people and combat environmental injustice and racism.

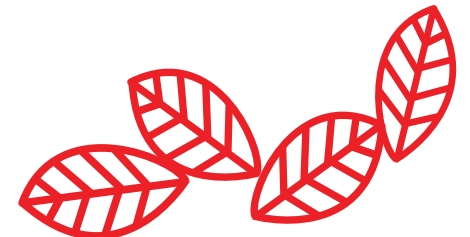

Let's get to work.

f t i @miamidsa
www.miamidsa.org
info@miamidsa.org

Democratic Socialists of America

What is Eco-socialism?

To catalyze the political mobilization necessary for a vision of the future where everyone's voice is heard and people are valued over profit: ecosocialism.

An immense crisis looms over an unequal world.

Tweaking their dials, Democrats win insufficient, vulnerable victories while Republicans ignore the problem and fan the flames. Capitalism has proven unable to deliver the deep cuts needed to preserve a stable climate.